

MULTIPLE VOICES MULTIPLE TEMPORALITIES

Imaginaries of cultural and political resistance

GLOB Exchange Research Workshop

ABOUT THE RESEARCH WORKSHOP

The Research Workshop MULTIPLE VOICES – MULTIPLE TEMPORALITIES: IMAGINARIES OF CULTURAL AND POLITICAL RESISTANCE is the first in a series of workshops that will be organized within the collaborative research project GLOBE_EXCHANGE: MODELS AND PRACTICES OF GLOBAL CULTURAL EXCHANGE AND NON-ALIGNED MOVEMENT. RESEARCH IN THE SPATIO-TEMPORAL CULTURAL DYNAMICS, conducted by the Academy of Fine Arts and Design in Ljubljana, Slovenia, and the Institute of Art History in Zagreb, Croatia (2020–2023).

A multidisciplinary team of researchers on this project is focused on new visual regimes and new models of cultural exchange that emerged in the second half of the 20th century as a consequence of the process of decolonization, and which we see as radical political and aesthetic interventions into the dynamics of global Cold War artistic and visual culture. We are particularly interested in exploring the geo-cultural dynamics of the Non-Aligned Movement (NAM); we are also seeking to address the economic, social and political framework of such interventions, providing the context for explanations of their socio-cultural consequences.

Aiming to decenter the Yugo-centric perspective, we are approaching and interpreting NAM as an unstable, ever-changing cluster of diverse cultural and artistic practices, involved in a larger – and largely unexplored – complex network of political and cultural solidarity, supporting exchange between the countries of the Global South, and closely related to the common political agenda of decolonization. We aim to approach these complex phenomena through the use of custom-made digital tools for network analysis, and dynamic spatio-temporal data visualization. The application of digital tools will allow for a view of NAM as a multi-nodal network with distinctive primary nodes (including socialist Yugoslavia, Cuba, India, Algeria, Egypt and others) and multiple secondary nodes, interacting with each other in terms of counteracting the universality of colonial modernity, and questioning capitalist concepts of development, both within and outside the network. Such a view is also the fundamental starting point for research into the economic aspects of the Non-Aligned Movement, and into the material conditions for, and socio-political frameworks of, cultural exchange. Using the same nodal points (and the locations they represent), and reconstructing the intensity and trajectories of their participation in international cultural exchanges, we intend to generate yet another set of networks, and a range of correlated spatio-temporal landscapes, each pointing to a different set of (cultural) hubs inside and outside of NAM's primary geo-political focus and outreach, outlining its broader impact on the dynamics of the international cultural scene.

Through this two-day research workshop with invited lecturers, we are particularly interested in gaining insights into correlations between, and possible connections across, networks of cultural and political solidarity operating outside of NAM's geo-cultural space, or the points of its intersections with key sites of anti-colonial resistance. The workshop is aimed at strengthening common understandings and promoting cooperation among researchers with different disciplinary and theoretical backgrounds, as well as clarifying the conditions for general application of their specific methodologies within the described thematic focus of the GLOB Exchange project.

The workshop will be organized thematically around different cultural phenomena – new biennial and perennial exhibitions, new approaches to museums and cultural heritage, new magazines and popular media – that functioned as points of encounter and cultural exchange in-between these networks. The workshop and the project are financed by the Croatian Science Foundation (HRZZ), and the Slovenian Research Agency (ARRS).
